IN selecting trucks for the modern building the buyer must choose from the several types on the market the truck which most nearly meets all the demands for his particular needs.

The long life of COLSON trucks and the ease of operation are due principally to the high-grade ball-bearing casters used.

From the wheels up COLSON trucks are made stronger by following the structural steel method of building.

They are quiet because of the ball-bearing wheels and swivel casters—ball bearings permit an adjustment which eliminates rattle.

COLSON wheels are equipped with high-grade molded rubber tires, aluminum alloy tires or steel tires.

Warehouse stocks at New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Detroit, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. Eleven convenient sources of supply for your truck and wheel requirements.

QUIET COLSON TRUCKS

Model 1065

A small, quiet truck, so light in weight that it can be carried with one hand. It will get under a heavy load and move it in silence. The frame is made of steel angles and the wheels are ball-bearing and rubber-tired. Finish, olive green.

Width	14"
Height	45"
Wheel equipment, 5-inch wheels.	M5-BF
Weight, net	16 lbs.
Weight, crated	25 lbs.

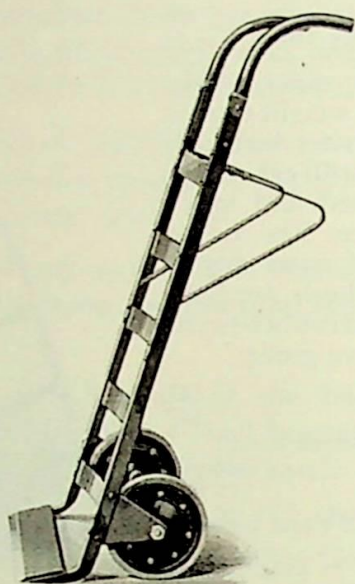

Model 1067

Model 1067 is the 1065 truck equipped with a galvanized tank. The tank may be easily and quickly taken off. There are two projecting studs on the toe plate which engage the bottom edge of the tank to prevent it slipping off. The latch visible on the handle pushes over sideways, releasing the tank at the top.

QUIET COLSON TRUCKS

Model 6002—Wheel Stretcher

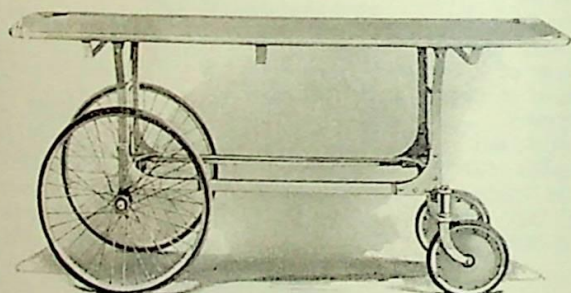

The frame is made of steel tubing light in weight and of a tested strength equal to any strain that is likely to be put upon it. All joints are made with malleable castings or steel stampings pinned and brazed to the steel tubing.

The detachable litter is made of steel channel with a good substantial rubber bumper entirely surrounding it. The litter frame is made with a solid sheet steel top. These litters may be made permanent or a fixed part of the stretcher by fastening them to the main frame with four bolts provided for this purpose.

Wheel equipment is the very best. The Colson pressed steel ball-bearing, rubber-tired wheels and all steel ball-bearing swivel forks for swivel wheels and extra heavy bicycle type wheels on the stationary axle.

Finish, aluminum. It is a hard, smooth finish that looks like dull nickel. It will withstand more wear and cleaning than any other adhesive finish and will not chip like the hard enamels.

Height over all	33"
Length over all	72"
Width over all	26"
Diameter of large ball-bearing wheels	24"
Diameter of small ball-bearing wheels	10"
Diameter of large cushion rubber tires	1 1/4"
Diameter of small cushion rubber tires	1"
Weight, net	115 lbs.
Weight, crated	180 lbs.

Model 6025—Wheel Stretcher

Model 6025 is equipped with the same litter and wheels as described under Model 6002 except that the litter is a permanent part of the stretcher and not detachable. The finish is the same as described under 6002.

The chassis or main frame is made of steel angles reinforced with steel gussets. This angle frame, supported as it is by steel gussets, is stronger than it is possible to make a tubular construction with either brazed or welded joints.

Height over all	33"
Length over all	72"
Width over all	26"
Diameter of large ball-bearing wheels	24"
Diameter of small ball-bearing wheels	10"
Diameter of large cushion rubber tires	1 1/4"
Diameter of small cushion rubber tires	1"
Weight, net	115 lbs.
Weight, crated	180 lbs.

Model 6005—Wheel Stretcher

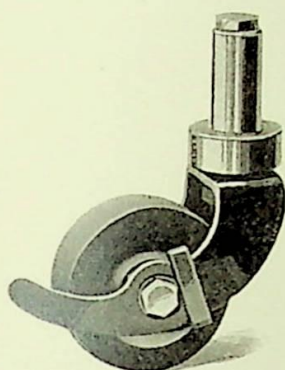

Model 6005 is the same as 6025 except that the bed of the litter is made of woven steel strips instead of solid steel sheet.

Model 6056 Wheel Stretcher

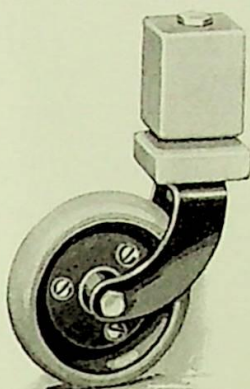

Model 6056 is the same as Model 6025 except that it has four swivel wheels instead of two swivel and two large wheels on a stationary axle.
